INFORMATION FOR PERSONS WHO WOULD LIKE TO WRITE.

The Craft Is More Profitable Than Ever Before, Says H. H. Howland, a Literary Adviser.

TRUE, THERE'S NO END OF BOOKS

BUT, HE SAYS, MEN HAD BETTER READ ANYTHING THAN NOTHING.

Every Manuscript a Publishing House Gets Is Carefully Examined-A Fair Show to All.

Bowen-Merrill Company, is optimistic in his views regarding the chances of the young | prepared statements. author, whose opportunities he thinks were never better than at present. Probably no profession in the world is more widely sought than that of story-writing, for the large publishing houses commonly have from 2,000 to 3,000 manuscrips submitted to them each year, and yet with all of the large number of ambitious authors there is a very small per cent, of them that ever attains distinction. But because the majority fails that is no particular reason why one seeking for laurels in this field | seems to think that this condition undoubtshould give up; for publishers, like theatri- | edly exists. cal managers, all claim that there is room at the top, and that they are continually looking for new material and new writers. Whoever starts to write fiction, publishers like all other professions, must be well ern publishing houses is registered, its relearned and understood before entering | celpt acknowledged and a careful examupon it seriously. It is further asserted that to write a successful book one must have natural ability and a large amount of | fessional readers. After this has been done | it. Where the average person makes a mistake as to authorship is, he thinks, that | er the manuscript is suited to its wants or anyone who takes it into his head to write a book can do so with little trouble. The that to write a successful book one ome a journeyman in his craft. There have been a few men in the history of fiction like the man who wrote "David Harum." Such cases are rare.

the part of people who read books as to who manuscript readers for publishing houses are, for they are a class of men whose labors are not rewarded by any great public notice. The manuscript readers are not necessarily connected with the publishing house in any other capacity. There is a number of them employed by each concern. A practice of secrecy is adopted so that no undue influence can be brought to bear upon these readers and that the authors may be fairly dealth with and all stand an equal show. These manuscript readers are generally capable men and women, who understand how a book of fiction should be constructed and what the story should contain to be of interst to the public. They are also persons who can read a manuscript with the eye of a critic. and understand it from a purely literary standpoint. When the manuscript of a book is received by a publishing concern it is registered and sent out to a reader, who, after going carefully over it makes a written report. If this report should be favorable, which is very seldom the case, then the manuscript is sent to another reader | to combine a little information with their and reported on, and so on until it has gone through the hands of a number of them. By this time, of course, a comparatively to this, the interest that has recently been accurate opinion can be had of it. This is aroused in the history of our country has all done to lessen the chances of a house | naturally stimulated a demand for the putting out a bad book, and sometimes after this precaution is taken a publishing the public taste. It is often wondered what points in sider so as to be able to judge the merit of it. Publishers claim that the first thing he must see to is that there is public interest in the subject. The next important thing is the plot-whether it is neatly constructed. The plot of a story is necessarily the most essential thing in it, and if it is not handled so that it will seem probable lives of the characters will seem natural to the reader the story is nearly certain to be a failure. It is also the duty of the manuscript reader to see that the story is about the short story. I am told that the clearly and decently written and that the book-buying public no longer cares for characters are alive and full of action and | bound volumes of short stories. Possibly, do not drag in their speeches. It takes all the all-pervasiveness of the low-priced of these features combined to make an in- magazine has something to do with this. teresting story, and one writing fiction must | For 35 cents at the most the short story for publication are given such serious con- to say, however, that the short story has them from every standpoint before giving it may be when this day comes the public them to the public. The kind of stories that | will pay full price for a bound volume and are always being looked for, and that con- file it away in the library along with the ever two men met in former times they cerns at the present time demand, are novel of the hour. this kind of notoriety.

YOUNG AUTHORS' CHANCES. marks the other day, said;

the literary stripling, were never brighter, creasing every year. I have no sympahy it seems to me, than at the present time. I say this in spite of the fact that so eminent an authority as Mr. Norris has declared to the contrary. He seems to feel that the future is uncertain and the rewards too meager. The tone of his recent remarks is pessimistic and discouraging. Of course, it is true in the field of literature, as in any other field of endeavor, that many are called and few are chosen, but that the failures are disproportionately large I am very much inclined to doubt.

"He speaks pityingly of the literary hack who grinds out his daily allotment of 'stuff' and who at odd moments tries to write an immortal novel. It is true, to be sure, that every man who writes cannot earn his bread by the sweat of his imagination, and in order to get the necessary three meals a day he must write 'space' for the newspapers or read manuscripts for a publishing house, but I cannot believe that the situation is as gloomy as Mr. Norris pictures it. There is something in authorship besides the mere financial returns. The knowledge that one has done a good piece of work, the praise of one's friends and the stirring ambition to do something of happiness. It is no doubt true that the public of to-day has an exaggerated idea of the money returns from fiction writing. There seems to be an impression among the laymen that an accepted manuscript means a winter home in Florida and a summer one in the Adirondacks. This misapprehension is probably due as much to the wide publicity given fiction writers as to any other cause. A novel is much advertised, widely talked of, and the unthinking jump to the conclusion that the author must be fairly 'coining money.' "In this connection it is rather interesting to note a slip that Mr. Norris makes in estimating royalties. He supposes a case of an author whose book has had a sale of 2,500 copies, which he claims is very much above the sale of the average novel. At the regular royalty, which he says is 10 per cent., he estimates that an author would receive as a total reward for his labors $250. This, of course, would be the correct amount if the selling price of the novel were a dollar. But the truth is ninety-nine novels out of a hundred are listed to retail at $1.50. So that the royalty at 10 per cent. would be 15 cents a copy, and on 2,500 copies would be $375, or $125 more than Mr. Norris figures. This added amount will not make the author rich; it is H. H. Howland, literary advisor of the only spoken of here to show how inaccuracles may creep into the most carefully

"The day of the supremacy of the wellknown author, it would seem, is almost past. The young man with his first book, some genuine popular appeal, is very likely to outstrip his well-known and established longer searches out the publisher, but that the publisher harrows the literary field with a fine-tooth comb. Just how true this is I am not prepared to say. Mr. Norris

ALL HAVE ATTENTION. "It also seems that the time-honored misapprehension that publishers return unexamined the manuscript of an unknown author still has some life left. Every manuination given to it. Often it is read and reported on by as many as four or five prothe editorial department determines wheth-

"Of course, in spite of all this care, many mistakes are made. Editors and expert readers are fallible and as likely to have indigestion as are the workers in any other walk of life. There are many well-known stories of successful novels that went the rounds in manuscript form, knocking at There is always considerable interest on | the inhospitable doors of prominent publishing houses, only to be returned with the usual 'not available' note. These golden opportunities are missed not because the supercilious publisher is still spurning the unknown, but simply because he is fallible and fails now and then to know a good thing when he sees it. "Letters from influential friends and recommendations of gentlemen who have appeared in print avail naught. Each manuscript stands on its own bottom, whether it comes from Brown county or Boston; it is put through the same 'course of sprouts.' Each is examined, each is read, each is reported on, but few are accepted."

"Isn't it true that the historical novel has about had its day?" Mr. Howland was asked, and replied: "Well, it looks now very much as if the historical novel should go on its way rejoicing for many years to come. There is some indication that the story of the short sword and the lace ruffle has seen its best day, but it would be a bold man who would state even this positively. There are a great many readers of fiction who are glad recreation, and so the historical novel makes its appeal to them. In addition American historical novel.

"A number of writers in the past few house will accept a book that will not suit | years have turned to politics for their inspiration And certainly nothing is more vital in our American life than is politics story the manuscript reader has to con- as politicians play the game. But it is futile to attempt to say what is permanent and what is ephemeral in present-day literature. The truth is that it does not make much matter after all what the subject is or where the scene is set; how it is done is

Mr. Howland was asked what his opinion was in regard to the recent controversy as to whether the public was taking more interest in the short story than in the novel, and replied:

"I am afraid I cannot tell you much have them foremost in his mind all the lover can get all of this size package he can possibly care for at one time. The When a publishing house puts out a man who buys a book seems to want it full book that sells for $1.50 and is compelled grown, and he demands that the hero and to do a dollar's worth of advertising to the heroine shall continue to the end bearkeep up the sale it is not making money, ing the same names they had when he met That is the reason books that are taken them in the first chapter. It seems safe sideration by the publishers, who weigh not reached its flower of perfection, and those that set people talking. The mouth- "One hears on every hand surprised exto-mouth advertising is the kind that pressions as to the great number of books counts, and if the books that a publishing | published each year. It is a source of wonhouse issues lack merit they cannot get | der to many what becomes of all of them | and how they get themselves read. In some quarters there is a tendency to decry Frank Norris, novelist and literary ad- the literary deluge. I presume it would viser, recently wrote an article in which be a difficult matter to convince the bilious he pictures the life of the literary man as critic that the worst books never get pubexceedingly gloomy and void of just re- lished. Only some one intimately connected wards. In fact, he advises young men to with the publishing business can know seek some other means of earning a living anything about the book that never sees because, he says, they will be more apt to | the light of day. Believing, as I do, that find a larger amount of discouragement in only the best finds its way between covers, literary work than in any other. Mr. How- whatever the difference of opinion may be land, in commenting upon Mr. Norris's re- as to the quality of the 'best,' it seems to me that it is a matter of rejoicing and "The possibilities of the young author, not regret that the reading public is in-the Price.

~~~~~

Bicycles are

Best-$25

INDIANA'S GREATEST DRY GOODS EMPORIUM

Tasso Corsets Sold Here

Exclusively

MUCH-WANTED GOODS AT VERY MUCH LESS THAN USUAL PRICES

Many big trade deals in the new season's merchandise as well as special reductions in our own stock to make this abig bargain week. This advertisement is interesting down to the last word.

A Very Important Offer of Women's Choice Tailored Suits

Suits in the newest and most up-to-date styles, priced just half for the coming week:

| Suits | that | were | $20.00 | now | $10.00 |
|-------|------|------|---------|-----|---------|
| Suits | that | were | 30,00   | now | 15.00   |
| Suits | that | were | 35.00   | now | 17.50   |

"Fine as Silk" Shirtwaists $1.95

These are made of a soft silky material, which has no silk in it. The most desirable Waist for Spring and Summer wear.

-Second Floor.

Extra Values in Wash Fabrics

This coming week one of great importance to you in Wash Goods news-special price the great feature for the week.

| 40  | pieces 28-inch mercerized stripe Ging-                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                        |
|-----|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
|     | nams in light blues, pinks, dark blues,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|     | Oxfords and grays, at, a 19c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
|     | aru                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 32- | inch plain colored Oxfords, in 25c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|     | ne popular shades, at, a yard                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
|     | ASSESSMENT OF THE PROPERTY OF |
|     | tripes, all new designs, 39c 25c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 20  | inch fancy silk stripe Mousselaines,                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 00- | n solid colors, actual 50c value, 29c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| 9 . | it, a yard290                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 29. | inch Scotch Oxfords, in figures and                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
|     | tripes, all colors and a 50c 30c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| V . | alue, at, a yard                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |
| 46- | inch silk and linen Tissue, in the                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
| n   | atural colors, a 75c quality, at, 50c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| B   | vard                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| 32- | inch silk and linen Tissues, in fancy                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                         |
| S   | tripes, in all colors, a $1 value, 59c                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
| 40  | it, a yard Swisses and mohair                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                 |
| 40- | inch embroidered Swisses and mohair                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                           |
| 1 1 | Muslins, in stripes and figures, 75c ctual $1.50 weaves, at, a yard                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |
| a   | total plot wearen, at, a jamin.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |

Black Dress Goods

Attractive prices on excellent fabrics for summer wear.

| Blackregulyard | Brilliantines, the kind that sells arly at 65c; Monday, a 49c                        |
|------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Black                  | Nuns' Veiling and Albatross,ch make, all wool, light 50ch, summer fabric, a yard |
| Black                  | Crepe Cloth, all wool, very ef-ve and durable, a 690                             |
| Blackest ayard | Hopsack Twine Cloth, the lat-ddition to stock, at a 690                          |
| Black                  | pure mohair Mistral, the popular                                                     | fabric of the season and not plenti-$1.00 and $1.25

IMPORTED WEAVES DOMESTIC FABRICS

2,000 yards Dimities, printed in dress styles on light and dark grounds,

| 19c                   | made to sell at 12%c, special, a yard9                                                                      |
|-----------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 25c fancy 25c         | 250 pieces printed Batiste, in all kind of fancy printings and dots, stripes and borders, a yard 121        |
| aines,29 c | 10,000 yards Holly Batiste, the mopopular thin fabric for the seasocomes in light and dark grounds, |
| 39c                   | figures, stripes and borders, as well ain the new rosebud designs, a 15yard                         |
| the                   | Polks dot Piques and Ducke in                                                                               |

Dotted Swiss Muslins, 150 pieces, all different styles-in fact, every style made in this cloth is here, at, a 15c

Sheet Music at 19c

Just Next Door, Charles K. Harris's latest "hit." Mid the Orange Trees and Blossoms She is Waiting.

Life Ain't Worth Living When You're Broke. Strollers.

If You Loved Me. On Easy Street. -South Balcony.

Notions

Special sale Monday of Merrick's six cord Spool Cotton at, a spool ... 4c

SPECIAL PRICES

500 Yards Fancy Stripe White Goods for shirtwaists, 25c value, at a 20c 30c goods, at a yard ..... Embroidered Swisses and fancy 29c lace stripes, 40c goods, at a yard. 200 Yards Imperial Lawn, extra fine and very special value at 40c, on 29c . Monday the price is, a yard...... Imported English fancies, worth 35c

Summer Silks

Black and colors, plain and figured, standard makes, all desirable and choice paterns, consisting of Black Taffetas, Black Indias, Figured Foul-Which is about half their real value.

Dress Fabrics

IN THE POPULAR BLUE SHADES weaves among which are

| 44-in. blue Etamines, three shades, 7 | 5 c |
|---------------------------------------|------------|
| 44-in. blue Etamines, two $1.0       |            |
| 50-in. blue Mistral, a yard $1.0     | 00         |
| 44-in. blue Voile, four shades, $1.0 | 00         |
| 50-in. blue Etamine in rope $1.0     | 00         |
| 50-in. blue German Mistral, a $1.2   |            |
| 48-in. blue London Twine, a $1.5     | 50         |
| 44-in. blue Silk and Wool Eoli-$1.5  | 50         |
| 48-in, blue Chiffon Veiling, a$2.2   | 25         |
| -West Aisl                            |            |

and cretonnes, 30 and 35c grades, 19c at a yard..... Ruffle Swiss Curtains, with dainty colored borders, 3 yards long, in $1.45 Fine ruffle bobinet Curtains, with lace insertion and edge, 3 yards $1.39 long, $2 quality, at a pair..... Damask and Tapestry for portieres, 10 patterns, in newest and most effective styles, 50 inches wide, good weight,

Cords to match, a yard...... 12%0 Lace Curtains, two lots of about 100 pairs, each of the latest styles, in Arabian, Battenburg, Irish Point, Tambours, Brussels, all imported goods and 50c, at a yard.....-Basement.

LOOK AT THE

On the Center Silk Counter

The leading color for the season at hand, for separate skirts and entire dresses. A most exhaustive range of shades and

Unusual Drapery Prices for Monday

Materials for bed sets and chamber curtains in newest stripes in tickings

Lot 1, worth up to $5, at a pair. $3.52

Women's Chic Summer Hats Priced Little This Week

To make the coming week an important one in millinery sell-Cambries in four styles, 22c ing we have divided our trimmed hats into three different lotsthis includes every hat in the department-and will sell them at these very special prices:

> Ha:s that were $10 to $15, special at ......$5.00 Hats that were $5 to $10, special at.....$2.50

Untrimmed hats, a great big assortment on three large tables in the department, at-

28c, 48c, 98c

-Second Floor.

Another Hosiery Sale TO INTEREST

During the past two weeks we have picked up several very good values in desirable Hosiery for this season, and these, together with some late import arrivals of lace lisles, have been marked very special for the coming week's selling.

150 dozen ladies' fast black cotton hose, full seamless, with double heels and soles, 121/2c value, sale price, fine gauge cotton hose, full seamless, with shaped ankle, plain or lace effect, 17c value, sale price, a Ladies' imported Hermsdorf black lisle hose, full fashioned and with double heels and toes, a 39c value, at, 25c a pair.....Ladies' imported lisle and lace lisle hose, full regular made, new 39c patterns, 50c value, a pair ......

ton half-hose, toes, full seamless, 17c value 121c this sale, a pair..... Men's imported cotton half-hose in black, tan, black with white feet, and 95 dozen children's cotton hose, fine all Hermsdorf black, with double ribbed, full seamless, with double soles and high spliced heels, 25c 17c value, this sale, a pair..... knees, heels and toes, this sale, 7c Men's imported lace lisle half-hose, in Children's imported fast black lace black and colors, full fashioned, 25c lisie hose, six different patterns, with double heels and toes, 50c value, 25c this sale, a pair......25c

In the New Basement 14-tooth bent Rakes now, each ..... 190

Polished steel Spades, square and round pointed Shovels, choice, 49c Poultry and vine Wire, different widths, 1/2c a square foot, special 150 49c feet of 12-inch wire at..... Crimson Rambler Rose Bushes, worth up to $1, to close at, 15c each ..... Caladium Bulbs, each, 5e, 15e, 25e Gladiolus Bulbs, select, each......10 Our 7-foot I. X. L. Stepladder, 98c extra strong, $1.40 value, at ... Window Screens, our adjustable 24inch opens to 34 inches (limit 4 18c to a customer), at, each...... Screen Wire Cloth, all sizes, a 11c Screen Doors, 4-panel, full mortised, Fancy Doors, finest stock shown in the city, 8 different $1.19 sizes, each ..... Iceland Refrigerators in ash or oak, zinc and nickeloid lining, the handsomest refrigerator made, fully guaranteed, $7.25 to $29.00.

-East Aisle.

Infants' lace lisle socks, in black,

white and colors, all sizes, this 25c sale, a pair......

Infants' fancy striped mercerized lisle thread socks, 50c kind, this 35c sale, a pair......

150 dozen men's fast black cotton half-

Men's fancy striped lisle finished cotton half-hose, with double heels and hose, full seamless, with double heels and toes, this sale, a pair.....6c were 65c and 75c, to close at, 29c Empress Mocha and Java Coffee 20c a pound; free votes and coupon for books with each pound. 2-ounce jar Liebig's Beef Extract 250 4-pound package Gold Dust .......... 190

About 24 Rattan Clothes Baskets,

Pettes Dry Goods 60

12 bars Mascot Soap......250

7 bars Jaxon Soap......250

pair ......87.50 -West Aisle. -West Aisle. -Third Floor. 690, 890

Lot 2, worth up to $12, at a for the sour-faced gentlemen who throw up their hands and cry aloud against the making of many books. Although I am an interested witness, and possibly my testimony is worthless, still I believe it is a distinctly hopeful sign that to-day men New York Evening Sun. are reading fiction who never read before and that there is no doubt one had better read a ready-made historical novel than not to read at all."

Why We Shake Hands.

New York Herald. To shake hands with a person is rightly regarded as a token of amity, but very few know how this custom arose. According to a French ethnologist, whenwere accustomed to hold up their right hands in front of them as a sign that they had no intention of attacking each other. This mark of confidence, however, did not prove sufficient in all cases, for a man may hold up his right hand and yet, if he keeps it closed, may have a weapon concealed in it, and therefore it became the custom for the two right hands to grasp each other, as only thus could full assurance be given that no weapon was concealed in either of them. Formerly, therefore, this gesture, now the token of loyalty and friendship, was one of reciprocal distrust.

Tis Well.

"How is it with the child?" 'Tis well; Nor would I any miracle Might stir my sleeper's tranquil trance, Or plague his painless countenance; would not any seer might place His staff on my immortal's face, Or, lip to lip and eye to eye, Charm back his pale immortality.

No. Shunammite! I would not break God's stillness. Let them weep who wake. -John Williamson Palmer.

HE WAS ONE.

monkeys? He-No; lobsters. THE CAMERA AS A SCULPTOR.

Reliefs and Intaglios Automatically Produced.

An ingenious inventor of this city has perfected a device so widely applicable in practice that it promises not only to neutralize the skill of a considerable number of expert craftsmen, but radically to reform several important industries. To put the matter briefly, he accomplishes by this process the almost incredible feat of producing, with little or no manual interference, a plate in relief or intaglio from a design upon a flat surface.

Judging from some remarkable specimens of the work, it seems evident that this invention is destined to work great changes in many fields that hitherto might have been supposed safe from mechanical devices. Among the workers who will obviously feel its effects are those employed in diesinking for various purposes, as the making of medals, of buttons and insignia, of stamps for book-covers, stationery, etc. Its utility will not end here, however, for it will be applicable in several ways to enamel work, to the making of doorplates and signs of various sorts, to details in the manufacture of jewelry, furniture, picture frames and a hundred other things, and in every instance this means that handiwork of one kind or another will be supplanted by a simple mechanical process.

The exact nature of the process is, of course, a secret, but in a general way it is described as follows by Mr. Horatio R. Harper: "Suppose," he says, "that you bring us a design for a medal or for any other work in relief or intaglio. Our first concern is to examine the drawing and to find out whether it needs manipulation or not. If it does, the necessary changes are made, and by these means we get what is called the neutral print. From this, in turn, we get a negative image on a plate which is afterward exposed to the sun or electric light in conjunction with a specially prepared process plate. The process plate receives what may be described as a latent impression, but it must afterward be placed in a certain solution, a developer, in fact, and it is not till then that it begins to take its final shape. When removed from the solution it will be found that the design has been exactly translated into the three-dimensional form and in perfect accordance with the values of the original.

"From this we take a cast and from the cast we get a fireproof mold, and so we secure the finished product in any metal. Now, this evidently means a saving of labor, but it means also a great saving of time and expense. Take, for instance, a doorplate. The old method involves machine or hand, work, and generally both, whereas such work is entirely dispensed with by our method, which rests entirely on the work of the camera. "In conclusion, it may be said that, besides saving a great deal of time and labor, this new method enables us to reproduce the most elaborate and intricate designs-designs which it is utterly impossible to

The most delicate tracery, the finest lacework, even the closest linen mesh may be !

reproduced in absolute perfection, and, furthermore, whether it be simple or complicated, the cost is relatively so small that competition by present methods is out of the question."

Morgan's Dog.

asked Mr. Schwab.

J. Pierpont Morgan, Charles M. Schwab and several friends were at Mr. Morgan's kennels looking over some of the prize hunting dogs recently before the firstnamed gentleman sailed for Europe. Mr. Schwab fell in love with a fine-looking pointer and asked Mr. Morgan the dog's "That dog's name is Russel Sage," said Mr. Morgan.

"And why do you call him Russell Sage?"

"Because," said the great financier, "he never loses a scent.' NO POISON Has Ever Been Found in the Enamel of

AGATE NICKEL-STEEL The BLUE LABEL Pasted on Every Piece

PROVES IT. If substitutes are offered, write us This trade-mark is on every piece of genuine Agate Ware.

REW YORK BOSTON

A Krauss Shirt

Fits Best, Wears Best, Looks Best. WE DON'T BELIEVE THERE IS A TASTE

Prices, . . . $1.00 to $3.50

OR FANCY WE CAN'T SUIT IN SHIRTS.

UNDERWEAR In all the desirable hot-weather fabrics from 50 cents a garment up.

HOSIERY

The season's latest productions are obtainable here. Our assortment is so large we'll have no trouble in meeting your wants. Prices 25c to $2.00. WASH VESTS, STOCKS, BELTS, Etc.

Let us show you how style and economy meet here. Paul H. Krauss

Member Merchants' Association.

of some classic selection, or some technical difficulty stands in your way. The Simplex will show you how. Sold for Cash or on Easy Payments.

O) Militore